

Mr Mnikeli Ndabambi is currently an independent multi-disciplinary consultant and director for stakeholder and relationships at AFRICGEO PTY LTD (www.africa.org) hereafter trading as AGA PTY LTD. At Senior level, Mr Mnikeli Ndabambi previously served as acting CEO, Executive and General Manager at the South African Weather Service (SAWS). Mr. Mnikeli Ndabambi has a reputable career of more than four decades with SAWS.

He has led national and international projects and national projects (including World Meteorological Organization (WMO) projects). Mr Mnikeli Ndabambi served as the Chair of WMO Committee on Services for Regional Association one (RA1-which is Africa) and was previously Co-Chair for WMO Public Weather Services.

He possesses the requisite skills and knowledge required to develop and use mature scientific knowledge and services to inform risk-based decision making. In addition, Mr Ndabambi has strong capability to leverage the people, partnerships and infrastructure to enable the weather and climate community adapt to the changing climate. He has in-depth knowledge of corporate strategy with a focus on strategic leadership, management, foresight, business environment. This includes demonstrated leadership skills through the experience of leading senior scientists to development of innovative weather & climate application solutions across a range of climate sensitive sectors. Mr Ndabambi has vast experience in project Management in complex multilateral projects with internal and multilateral stakeholders. Overall Mr Mnikeli Ndabambi has extremely advanced networking and operations of scientific organizations nationally and globally that is duly suited to grow AGA as an international Organization now and in future.